Marpeankurric
— ARCTURUS —

This resourceful aboriginal woman saved her starving village by digging up a nest of nutritious ants. She was turned into a bright star for her good work. She still appears in the night sky as a signal to her people that it is time to harvest special foods.

I ora i te wahine toi whenua nei ngā iwi o tana kāinga e mate kai ana, i tana kerī ake i tētahi kōhanga pōpokorua hei kai mā rātou. Ka hurihia ia hei whetū mārama mō āna mahi pai. Ka kitea tonuhia te wahine nei i te rangi i te pō, he tohu ki tana iwi kua eke ki te wā e hauhaketia ai ētahi tino kai.

Hydra

THE SERPENT

This nine-headed monster lived in a swamp and looked like a huge snake. It attacked, killed and ate anyone who got close and one of its heads could never die. The clever god Hercules chopped off all nine heads, the Hydra was beaten and the people were saved.

Ko te wairepo te kāinga o te taniwha upoko-iwa nei, me te nākahi nunui tōna hanga. Whāia ai, patua ai, kainga ai e ia te tangata whakatata ki a ia, ka mutu e kore e mate tētahi o ōna upoko. Nā te atua mātau, nā Hercules, i tapahi ōna upoko e iwa, ka mate te taniwha nei, ka ora te iwi.

Tanebatua

VEGA AND ALTAIR

The Japanese God of the Heavens lets his daughter, the princess, visit her husband only once a year. The first time the Milky Way was too difficult to cross and the princess was very upset. A flock of magpies came and made a bridge for her so she could reach him.

I whakaaehia e te Atua Hapanihi o ngā Rangī te haere a tana tamāhine, te tapairu, kia toro i tana tane i ia tau. I te wā tuatahi i haere ai ia, ka uaua rawa te whakawhiti i Te Ika Roa, ka pōuri te ngākau o te tapairu nei. Ka tae ake he kāhui magpie ki a ia, ka hangaia he arawhiti kia tae atu ai ia ki tana tāne.
